

Reports, Opinions, Diagnostics and Consultancy

According to the Aurélio dictionary, report comes from praise, meaning “a written, substantiated piece, in which experts present the observations and studies they carried out and recorded the conclusions of the expertise.”

As for appearance. The Aurelio dictionary refers to someone's opinion or opinion, or way of seeing, issued by an expert.

The difference is due to art. 471 of the CPC.

MODELS OF REPORTS AND OPINIONS

In addition to the variety of models, due to the different tools, reports or opinions can have judicial or extrajudicial purposes, the latter of a preventive nature, aiming to clarify technical problems or prevent litigation.
